Dr Mazepa completed his training in internal medicine at the University of Wisconsin and fellowships in Hematology/Oncology and Blood Bank/Transfusion Medicine at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill before moving to a position as an Assistant Professor at the University of Minnesota Medical School. His primary clinical work is in non-malignant hematology with special interest in treatment of thrombotic microangiopathies, autoimmune hematologic disorders, and disorders of hemostasis and thrombosis. He is a clinical and translational researcher, with a research interest in thrombotic microangiopathies, and a focus in acquired TTP in particular. He co-founded and co-directs the US Thrombotic Microangiopathies (USTMA) Consortium, which includes 15 large US referral centers, with the goal of improving outcomes for patients with these rare diseases.
